'Snag' In Talks Keeps Captives On Ship

Brazil, Rebel Chief Resume Parley Today

Deadlocked Over Debarking Point, Liner Sanctuary

RECEIFE, Brazil (AP) — A deadlock Wednesday night in negotiations between the Santa Maria rebels and Brazilian officials held the ship's shanghaied passengers aboard for another agonizing night—this time within sight, of shore.

While the hijacked luxury liner lay a scant three miles from harbor for the first time since it was seized 10 days ago, Rebel Capt. Henrique Galvao appeared stubbornly holding out for the best terms he could get.

A Brazilian navy spokesman said the talks snagged on whether the 600 passengers will be disembarked in port or at sea and whether Galvao will be allowed by Brazil to set sail again.

Negotiations will be resumed Thursday.

Concern for the passengers mounted with their anxiety to end their odyssey. A member of the Brazilian shipboard negotiating commission said the passengers appeared jittery over the prospect of spending another night aboard ship.

Only Wednesday morning the passengers had a celebration aboard ship when the Santa Maria steamed into Brazil's territorial waters, thinking they would soon be disembarked.

Air Conditioning System Fails

At night the Santa Maria, ablaze with lights, lay in calm waters, its air conditioning system reportedly broken, its passengers dejected and sweltering in tropical heat.

U.S. Rear Adm. Allen E. Smith Jr. said he was against any attempt to transfer passengers at sea as far too hazardous—even close inshore where ground swells belie the apparent calm of the sea.

Radio Nacional Rio Janeiro quoted Brazilian Foreign Minister Arinos as saying the government had come to a decision regarding the Santa Maria but was withholding details pending Galvao's answer.

Unconfirmed but persistent reports said the Portuguese destroyer Pero Lobo was laying just outside Brazilian territorial waters in wait for the Santa Maria should it set sail after disembarking its passengers.

Earlier a radio exchange between Galvao and Brazil's new government appeared to have cleared the way for the Santa Maria to sail to the heavily guarded docks of Recife.

Rebels Assured Asylum

A dispatch from Brasilia said Galvao, who had dickered for hours with Brazilian authorities at an anchorage about three miles off Recife, messaged President Janio Quadros that he had decided to sail on into this port.

Quadros messaged Galvao assurances of political asylum for the 70-man rebel band which seized the liner and then met for nearly four hours with his cabinet to discuss the big issue—whether Galvao should be permitted to sail away with his $16.6 million prize after debarking the nearly 600 passengers.

The ministers had no comment when they left the meeting at Brasilia, the hinterland capital 1,000 miles southwest of Recife. But usually reliable sources said the cabinet considered the possibility of recognizing "a state of belligerence" between Galvao's band and the Portuguese government of Premier Antonio Salazar.

Dag Would Neutralize Congo Army

Stevenson, Hailed By Zorin, Urges Secretary Support

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold asked the U. N. Security Council Wednesday for authority to take the Congolese army out of political conflicts threatening the Congo with civil war.

He made the request after Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson, in his first speech as U. S. delegate, said the United States applauded the council's efforts to help the Congo's orderly transition to real independence "through the secretary-general."

Stevenson called also for adequate financial and moral support for the secretary-general, long under attack from the Soviet bloc. He also urged that the council "avoid useless recrimination."

Zorin Acclaims Adlai

Earlier, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin, joining in a round of welcoming speeches, hailed Stevenson as a champion of international collaboration and proposed "a patient search for mutual acceptable solutions."

He expressed hope that with Stevenson at the council representing the Kennedy administration, the council "will be able to discharge its duties much better than unfortunately has been the case up to now."

Stevenson's remarks were made in answering the welcoming speeches—a council formality before Hammarskjold launched the actual Congo debate.

Hammarskjold declared the recent transfer of deposed Premier Patrice Lumumba to Katanga Province seemed to have widened the rift between Congolese authorities in Leopoldville, where Kasavubu is paramount, and those in Oriental and Kivu Provinces, where Lumumba's supporters hold sway.

Army Units Take Sides

He told the council the army had split into separate units taking sides in this conflict and itself "has been and continues to be the main threat to law and order in the Congo," the objective of the U. N. force there.

"I would welcome a decision by the council," he said, "requesting the secretary-general to take urgent appropriate measures for assistance in the reorganization of the national army, preventing it, or units thereof, from intervening in the present political conflict in the Congo."

He noted that under decisions of last summer, the U. N. force was to help in reorganizing the army and also to keep law and order in the Congo and guard against outside interference.

Quake Kills Five In Japanese City

NAGAOKA CITY, Japan (AP)—A strong earthquake hit Nagaoka City early Thursday, killing five persons and injuring seven.

Police said at least 20 buildings had collapsed from the 3:39 a.m. quake, confined to the city's northwest section. Heavy snow hindered rescue work in this city of 131,000.

Tokyo's Central Meteorological Agency, 129 miles south of here, said the quake registered four on a Japanese scale of seven.

The quake also shook Niigata 34 miles north of Nagaoka, but no damage was reported there.

U. S. Balance Of Payments Deficit Drops

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans spent $3.8 billion more abroad last year than foreigners spent in this country—a balance of payments deficit $100 million below 1959, a ranking Commerce Department official reported Wednesday.

Edward Gudeman, who is waiting to be sworn in as undersecretary, revealed the figures, still not reported officially, in a talk at the mid-winter conference of the Advertising Federation of America.

He called on the advertising industry to support the government's campaign to increase exports as a means of shrinking further the payments deficit.

The deficit, which has caused an alarming drain on U.S. gold reserves, is to be the subject of a special message President Kennedy will send to Congress Monday. He may touch on it in his economic message to Capitol Hill Thursday.

Gudeman said the latest Commerce Department estimate of 1960 exports was $19.5 billion, compared to imports of $15 billion.

The balance of payments deficit, which includes those figures, is the difference between what Americans spend, invest and give away abroad compared to the amount received in this country from foreign sources.

Baluba Rebels Battle Police In Katanga

ELISABETHVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Baluba rebels and Katanga Province police fought a day-long battle Wednesday in Luena, a central Katanga coal-mining town, a U.N. spokesman said Wednesday night.

There were no immediate details of any casualties. However, the rebels were said to be armed with automatic weapons and reinforced by Congolese soldiers loyal to ex-Premier Patrice Lumumba.

First Lady, Heart Fund Twins Launch Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy ushered two little blonde girls—the Heart Fund twins—into the White House spotlight Wednesday to launch a month-long fund-raising campaign of the American Heart Association.

It was the new First Lady's first venture in promoting such drive.

With a smile, she told reporters and cameramen: "It's a great pleasure to meet the Heart Fund twins, Debbie and Donna, and to participate in this great Heart Fund campaign to fight heart diseases."

Mrs. Kennedy posed with the twins, 6 years old, children of Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Horst of Elkins Park, Pa., in the diplomatic reception room at the White House.

She added a new touch of her own by giving the blue-eyed little girls—survivors of identical heart operations at the Germantown, Pa., Hospital—tiny gold hearts "with your name and mine on it—for your charm bracelets."

The tiny charms carried the first name of each twin, the date, and the first lady's initials "J. B. K."

Present at the ceremony, which annually gives an official White House boost to the February heart campaign, were Dr. Oglesby Paul of Chicago, president of the American Heart Association, and Donald C. Power of New York City, national chairman of the 1961 Heart Fund campaign.

Washington Nursing Home Blaze Claims Seven Lives

Firemen Battle Fatal Blaze

Firemen fight a blaze in a Washington nursing home which brought death yesterday to seven aged, bedridden patients—four women and three men. The victims were in bed on the fourth floor when the fire reached them from the basement.

Happy, Healthy Space Chimp Returns Home

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Ham's home, he looks healthy and happy, and is right back at work doing his bit to further man's dream of voyaging in space.

But the 37-pound chimpanzee faces nothing so spectacular and giddy as his 19-minute roller coaster ride into space Tuesday.

Instead, he's again pushing levers to see if he's still as skilled as before and to check his mental reaction with his performance on his ride.

That job was reported apparently quite well done, despite crushing forces of increased gravity before and after more than six minutes of freedom from gravity pull, when Ham felt he had no weight at all.

One concern has been whether men can think and react normally under such stresses.

Peering about with lively, curious, brown eyes but uttering not a sound as he scuttled about in an aluminum cage, Ham arrived at 1:11 p.m. EST in a gentle touchdown of a C131 Air Force plane on a sun-bathed airstrip.

A bit more than 25 hours earlier he had zoomed up from Cape Canaveral in a Redstone rocket and bobbed around in the South Atlantic for 2½ hours before being picked up by a helicopter. Then he spent the night aboard a Navy ship, rode a helicopter to Grand Bahama Island for more medical checkups, and took an hour's flight home.

Ham blazed the way for a human astronaut to attempt the same type of trip, perhaps this spring.

Kennedy's Next News Session Won't Be 'Live'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said Wednesday night President Kennedy's next news conference won't be carried live on television and radio, but that the live format "by no means" being abandoned altogether.

"At the moment," said press secretary Pierre Salinger, "the plan is to depart from live broadcast casting only for the next presidential conference."

"We are still feeling our way in this whole field—we are still experimenting."

Minuteman Rocket Test Big Success

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI)—A new American intercontinental rocket, the solid fueled Minuteman, was placed on the firing line Wednesday without previous flight tests and roared 4,200 miles down the Atlantic Test Range to find its target.

The Minuteman is a compact, highly mobile vehicle designed for fast firing from railroad flat cars and underground silos. It can be produced at relatively "budget" prices.

Because it burns a solid fuel it requires none of the complicated plumbing and ground support equipment needed to get liquid ICBM's like Atlas and Titan off the ground.

Minuteman was triggered on its maiden flight at 11 a.m. EST. Unlike the slower rising liquid fuel rockets, it shot qu'ly into the blue skies, leaving a trail of orange flame and white smoke in its wake.

The 60-foot weapon never faltered as its three stages obediently fired in perfect sequence the way its self-contained computer told them to do.

About 20 minutes after the bullet shaped white missile virtually a production model—flashed skyward, it had reached its target.

15 Charges Placed Against Eichmann

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector (UPI) — Israel Wednesday night charged Nazi SS leader Adolf Eichmann with 15 counts of crimes against humanity and the Jewish people as well as membership in "hostile Nazi organizations."

West German attorney Robert Servatius of Cologne, appointed as Eichmann's defense counsel, received a copy of the formal charges from Israeli Atty. Gen. Gideon Hausner to start the legal processes which will culminate in Eichmann's trial for his life.

Hausner said he asked the Jerusalem district court to open the trial March 15.

The bill of particulars was printed in Hebrew with an English translation. Details were made public with Servatius' permission.

It was the first time any specific charges have been placed against Eichmann, 54, since Israeli intelligence agents seized him in Buenos Aires, Argentina,

Demos Elliott, Sisk Get Seats On Rules Group

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Speaker Sam Rayburn took control of the House Rules Committee for the Kennedy administration Wednesday by naming a southern moderate and a northern liberal to the Democratic seats gained in Tuesday's showdown with the conservatives.

Handpicked by Rayburn for the jobs were Reps. Carl Elliott, 47, of Jasper, Ala., and B. F. Sisk, 40, of Fresno, Calif., a leading member of the House's Democratic liberal bloc.

Elliott is one of a handful of southern liberals who consistently vote against the overwhelming majority of southerners on economic issues. He was expected to support President Kennedy on most proposals except civil rights.

With Elliott and Sisk on the committee, the administration is assured of the numerical support needed to override the conservative coalition which for most of the last 24 years has held the power to block liberal legislation from getting to the House floor.

The Republicans gained one seat as a result of Tuesday's vote which enlarged the committee from 12 to 15 members. That gives them three committee seats to fill since there already were two GOP vacancies.

Rebels Indicate Crewmen Will Be Kept Aboard Ship

RECIFE, Brazil (UPI) — A not man the vessel themselves, Delgado told newsmen in Recife he was sure Brazil's new president, Janio Quadros, would let Galvao keep possession of the ship.

Asked if the rebels would use force to keep the Portuguese crew aboard, the Delgado said:

"The crew will remain one way or another, but I cannot say by what means."

Portugal, through the archbishop of Lisbon, Manuel Cardinal Gollvies Cerejeira, asked President Kennedy in Washington for assurances the crew would not be held captive.

The U. S. Navy has said its main objective in trailing the liner was to protect the 620 passengers, seamen, rebel spokesman Humberto Delgado said the rebels could

Four Elderly Women, Three Men Perish

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seven aged, bedridden patients burned to death Wednesday when racing flames quickly engulfed a four-story private nursing home for the elderly.

At least 27 other persons—patients, employees, firemen, policemen and passers-by—were treated in hospitals. Fire Chief Millard H. Sutton called it "one of the worst fires in years" here.

The seven who died—four women and three men—were in bed on the top floor when the fire reached them from the basement. Their bodies were found either still in bed or on the floor.

Nurses Drag One To Safety

Two nurses, Nancy Coggins and Lucy Cartner, said they were on the fourth floor when the alarm was sounded. They said they managed to drag one of the floor's eight patients to safety, hoping firemen could rescue the other seven.

Patients on the first three floors were taken out by employees, firemen and passing citizens. The aged survivors, shock and bewilderment evident in their faces, were led to nearby buildings. There they waited their turns for ambulances shuttling back and forth to hospitals.

All available doctors and ambulances in the city were ordered to the scene, and many ambulances from nearby Maryland areas were pressed into service.

Woman Taken Down Ladder

At least one woman patient was taken down a ladder about an hour after the flames broke out, despite the speed with which the fire spread.

The brick building—the Mount Vernon Nursing Home—is located in the fashionable Rock Creek Park area near the Calvert St. and Connecticut Ave., bridges across the park.

There were 24 patients in the home along with five nurses and two assistants.

The cause of the fire was not immediately determined.

Macmillan Visit Next Month Seen Almost Certain

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan Wednesday night was reported almost certain to fly to Washington next month, to talk with President Kennedy as a concerted western policy for banning nuclear tests.

British official sources said no date has been set but that Macmillan probably will go in the latter half of March.

Diplomatic circles in London have been buzzing with rumors that Macmillan might advance the date of his Washington visit in order to see Kennedy before Soviet Premier Khrushchev has a chance to edge in ahead.

Observers believe Khrushchev may try for an early meeting with Kennedy by showing up in New York when the U.N. General Assembly session reopens March 7.

Three Steps Include Food Stamp Plan

President Repeals Ike Order To Limit Dependents Abroad

WASHINGTON (AP) — Continuing to paint a dark picture of America's fortunes at home and abroad, President Kennedy Wednesday announced three immediate steps to combat the economic recession.

The President also told his news conference he had repealed former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's controversial order to limit the number of dependents living overseas with servicemen.

To spur the economy, Kennedy listed these steps:

1. The payment of GI life insurance dividends this winter, ahead of schedule. This would pump more purchasing power into the economy.

2. The lowering of maximum interest rates on FHA-insured mortgages. This would boost home building and home buying.

3. The start of an experimental food stamp plan. This would help the hungry in chronically depressed areas in West Virginia, Pennsylvania, and other states.

Kennedy said more steps would follow. In fact, the President said:

"The first matter which we will address to the Congress will be the question of emergency payments to those unemployed who exhausted their benefits."

That is to be covered in his economic message to Congress Thursday.

Tax Cut Ruled Out

But the President ruled out one further step that had been recommended by one of his task forces—a temporary tax cut.

"Mr. President, do you consider the current business slump serious enough to justify a tax cut?" a newsmen asked.

"I do not at this time," Kennedy replied.

He added, however, that "we are going to make another judgment on the state of the economy in two to three months, and will then decide what action can be usefully taken."

To question after question, the President responded with replies echoing the central theme of his State of the Union address—that the country faces trials and perils.

"The tide has not been running with us," he said in response to one question. There are hazards which lurk around us."

"The news would be worse before it gets better," he said in another reply.

"I think the situation is less satisfactory than it was last fall," he said in a third response.

Painted Picture As He Saw It

A newsmen told the President some critics said his State of the Union address Monday had "painted the picture in dark colors so that should there be any improvement you would get the credit."

"Well," Kennedy said, "I painted the picture as I saw it."

"They (the problems) are painted accurately as I understand them," and anyone who makes the judgment that it was laid on thick for political reasons I think is making a serious mistake."

But the picture portrayed by the President at his news conference was bright at least for thousands of servicemen and their dependents.

President Eisenhower's Nov. 17 order would have limited dependents overseas to 200,000, and 287,000 others would have been sent home.

"I'm happy to announce," Kennedy said at the opening of the conference, "that the restrictions recently imposed on travel abroad of dependents of service personnel will be lifted as soon as the necessary legislation is passed."

Senate Unit Okays Caplin Nomination

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee approved Wednesday the nomination of Mortimer M. Caplin as Internal Revenue Commissioner although he disagreed with a committee majority on oil and gas depletion allowances.

Caplin testified he favored cutting the controversial 27 percent allowance. In the past, a majority of the committee has voted to keep it.

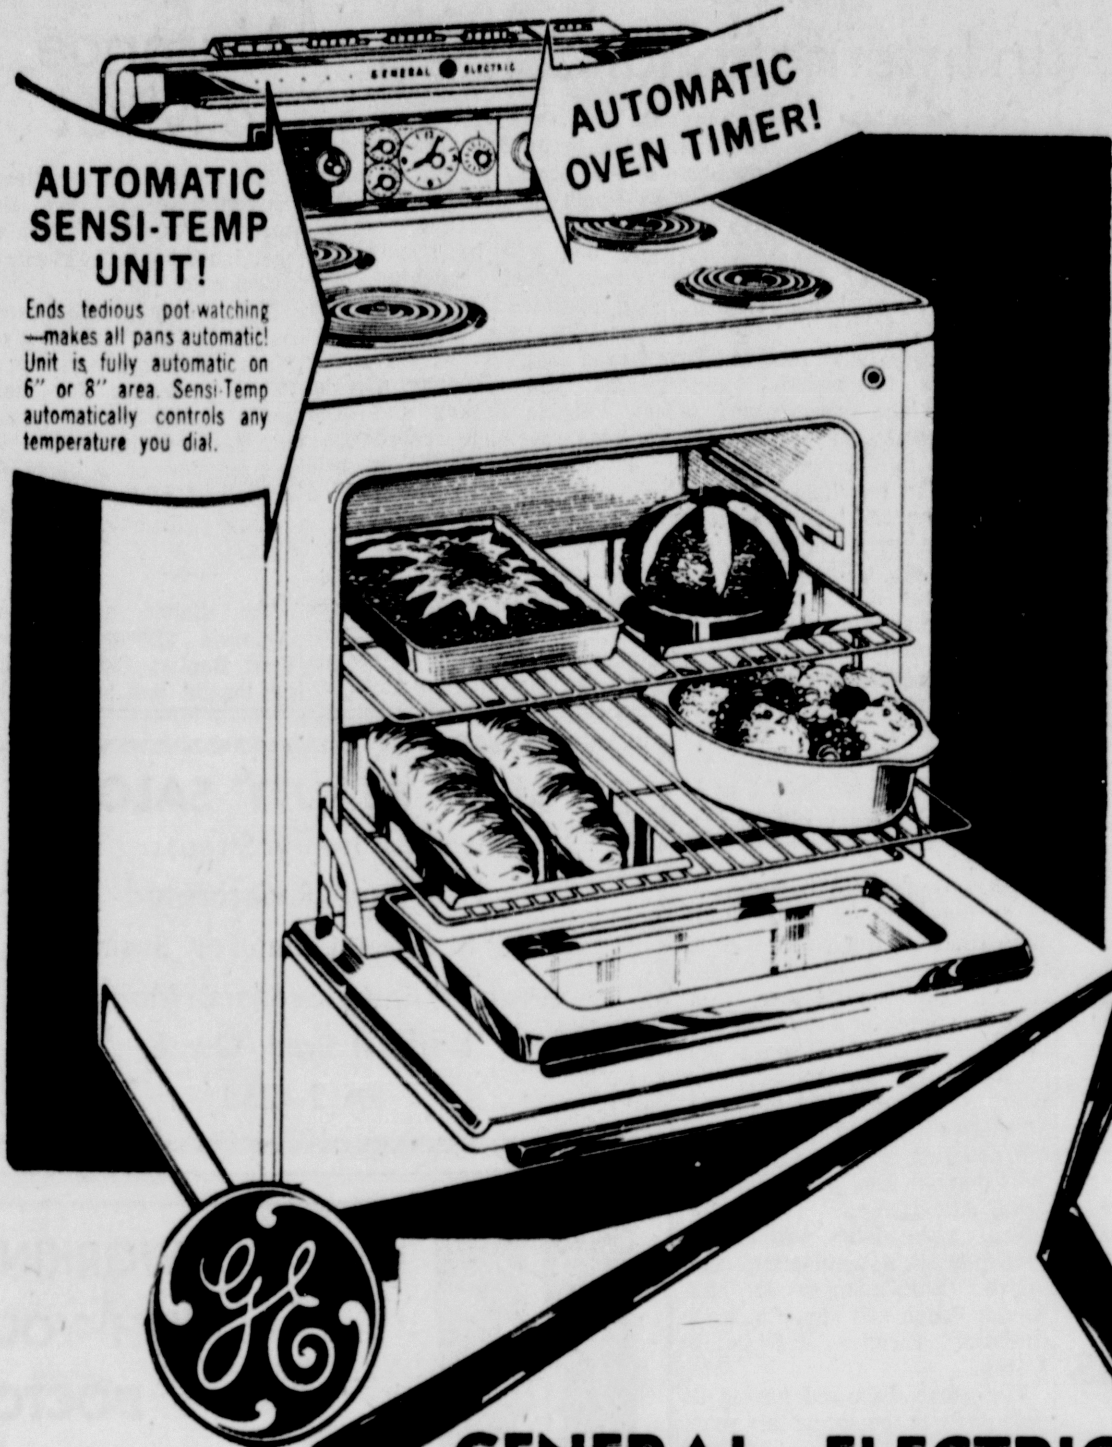

While expressing his views freely, Caplin stressed that his job as commissioner was to collect taxes, not to make policy.

The policy on depletion allowances will be set elsewhere in the Kennedy administration. And there has been little hint about what that policy will be.

During the presidential campaign, Kennedy did not commit himself on the issue, but said it should be studied.

Mrs. Barbara Richardson was hostess for the first course; Miss Margaret Smith, for the main course; and Mrs. Charlotte Northcraft, the dessert.

The card party will be February 21 at the home of Miss Smith, 323 1/2 Holland Street, and is to be for the benefit of the Heart Association. Omicron Chapter is invited to attend the event. At that time, Mrs. Loretta Smith will present a program concerning the Heart Association, and the benefits derived from donations to it.

A donation of $25 was voted to the exemplar fund of the International office.

Mrs. Alpha Barb was elected chairman of a nominating committee. Other members are Mrs. Emma Brugh and Mrs. Catherine Grever. Election will be in March.

The group discussed having its rush party in the spring this year; a spaghetti dinner to be held February 11 at Anton's in the Fort Cumberland Hotel, followed by bowling. Husbands and friends will be entertained.

The City Council dance May 19 was discussed also, and Mrs. Mary Harrison was named to serve on the dance committee. Members were reminded of the card party which the City Council is having April 13 in Emmanuel Episcopal parish house.

Concluding the meeting a program on public speaking was presented by Mrs. Northcraft and Mrs. Harrison. The former gave a resume of the life of Dale Carnegie.

Blaze In Baltimore Hospital Building Forces 200 To Flee

No One Injured In Multi-Alarm Fire

BALTIMORE (AP) — A smoky multi-alarm fire damaged a 65-year-old building at University Hospital Wednesday and forced evacuation of about 200 persons. No one was injured.

The portion of the 4-story building damaged was constructed in 1895, and is connected with the original hospital building erected in 1823. The structure is now used as the hospital's out-patient department.

Firemen wore gas masks as they fought the fire on the second and third floors of the building west of the city's downtown area.

About 30 pieces of equipment responded to the five alarms and the blaze was brought under control in about 45 minutes.

Deputy Chief John E. Ege said the blaze apparently started in the second floor rear hallway of the Medical Care Clinic.

"It was really rough in there for the men," Ege said, explaining that the flames spread behind wall partitions and a false ceiling into the third floor.

Smoke was thick as firemen pulled down partitions to get to the flames.

"There's nothing but framework left in the area of the fire," the deputy chief said.

The fire was confined to the two floors in about one-quarter of the west end of the building. The adjacent Student Union Building, which was opened last May, was not endangered, firemen said.

A new out-patient building will be constructed as part of the University of Maryland's expansion of its Baltimore campus, and the present structure will be razed to make room for an extension to the Student Union Building.

Construction workers assisted in the evacuation and tried to reach the flames with fire extinguishers, but were forced back by heavy smoke.

The first floor suffered extensive water damage as water cascaded from the floors above.

Traffic was rerouted around the scene of the fire at Lombard and Greene streets. Lombard is a main east-bound artery through the center of the city and Greene enters the heavily-traveled Baltimore-Washington Expressway.

Maryland Briefs

BALTIMORE (AP) — A check for $10,000 to be applied to construction of the Children's Medical and Surgical Center at Johns Hopkins Hospital was presented today by the Baltimore News-Post and Sunday American.

The gift was presented by Fred J. Archibald, publisher of the newspapers. The 10-story, $11 million center will be built on the Johns Hopkins grounds in East Baltimore, with beds for 260 patients and research facilities for the Department of Pediatrics.

BALTIMORE (AP) — There's a lot of appeal to the job of a meter maid—coin collecting aides to the Police Department in connection with its parking meter duties.

The department recently announced it had 10 new openings. So far 316 women between the ages of 21 and 36 have filed for the $3,336-a-year jobs—with two more days still to go before the deadline for receipt of applications.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Army captains landed their small, twin-engine plane without mishap Wednesday at nearby Andrews Air Force Base after a damaged right landing gear threatened a serious emergency.

The plane's right wheel was twisted 90 degrees on its axle during practice landings at New Castle County Airport at Wilmington, Del.

Aboard the plane were Capt. J. D. Jones and L. R. Rodawald, attached to the 2nd Army Aviation Flight Detachment at Ft. Meade, Md. They had left Ft. Meade earlier in the day on the training flight.

COCKEYSVILLE, Md. (AP) — A foreman of the Baltimore County Highway Bureau was killed and his superintendent wounded Wednesday in a shooting at the agency's shop yards near here.

Dead at the scene was William F. Sprinkle, 43, of Sparks. Wounded by a bullet which grazed his side was Charles Cole, 31, of Cockeysville.

County police said Cole reported Sprinkle drew a revolver on him, and that gun discharged when Cole struck at Sprinkle. Officers said the men had been at odds since last year when Cole was promoted from foreman to superintendent.

EASTON, Md. (AP) — The Talbot County Board of Commissioners has submitted a budget request of $1,662,812 for the 1961-62 fiscal year, an increase of $247,865 over the previous year. The budget handed county commissioners did not include $301,032 for debt service on school building bonds now outstanding.

Ancient sculptures and written accounts suggest that hawking was very popular in Egypt, Persia, Greece and Rome. In medieval Europe, it was a favorite pastime of the nobility.

Strip Teaser Will Lecture On Psychology

BALTIMORE (AP) — A strip tease dancer with a college degree has agreed to give a lecture on psychology for a group of Baltimore politicians.

The speaker will be Libby Jones, a performer who earns up to $1,250 a week as a stripper. Her lecture appearance next week will be before the Trenton Democratic Club of Baltimore.

"I'll talk about the sociological and psychological aspects of stripping," the shapely blonde promised. "Psychologically Americans have many strange taboos. These have brought on a void in discussions on sex. Because of this, the American male has created a need for the stripper."

Miss Jones, who holds a bachelor's degree from the University of Washington, began her stripping career on a dare from a friend in her native Seattle. Her lectures are rare — but free.

Miss Jones warned that any of her audience expecting more than a lecture would be in for a disappointment. "If the men expect anything more than an address," she said, "They'll have to come to the club."

Largest Polio Airlift Planned

BALTIMORE (AP) — A specially-equipped Air Force Convair transport plane will carry four iron lung patients from Baltimore to Cleveland Thursday in what is described as the biggest polio airlift ever made.

The four patients, all residents of Baltimore, will be taken by ambulance in the iron lungs to Baltimore's Friendship International Airport for the flight to Cleveland. The patients are being transferred to a respirator center in Cleveland because of the closing of such facilities at City Hospitals here.

Accompanying the patients on the flight will be two doctors, three nurses and six technicians. The patients range in age from 21 to 44.

McKeldin Treated For Duodenal Ulcer

BALTIMORE (AP) — Physicians at Johns Hopkins Hospital said Wednesday former Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin was suffering from a duodenal ulcer.

The 60-year-old Baltimore lawyer, twice Republican governor of Maryland, was said to be "doing exceedingly well" and was undergoing further tests and treatment. McKeldin was taken to the hospital Tuesday night by ambulance after he was stricken while attending a public dinner at a Jewish social hall.

The hospital said it had not been determined how long McKeldin, who completed his last term as governor in 1958, would be confined for treatment.

GOP State Central Committee To Meet

BALTIMORE (AP) — The full membership of the Republican State Central Committee will meet at Baltimore Friday in the first gathering of the group since in the party's state convention last June.

The meeting is scheduled at 2:30 p. m. at the Lord Baltimore Hotel. GOP officials said.

The committee numbers 132 persons, headed by State Chairman D. Eldred Rinehart.

Contract To Fairchild

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has awarded a $1.09 million contract for additional work by Fairchild Engine & Airplane Corp., Hagerstown, Md., on two drone surveillance systems.

Legislature Sidelights

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Radiation fallout shelters would be tax exempt under a bill approved Wednesday by the House Ways and Means Committee.

The committee approved the measure by voice vote, setting it up for floor action Thursday.

A bill to give tax exemptions to Ogle Hall, historic headquarters of the Naval Academy Alumni Association, was submarked Wednesday by the House Ways and Means Committee.

Opponents, forced into a roll call vote, won it 14-11.

Sponsored by Sen. Louis N. Phipps, D-Anne Arundel, the bill would have exempted the association from paying $82.51 a year in state property taxes on the historic building. This also would make the property eligible for exemption from $1.156 in Anne Arundel property taxes.

The Senate already had passed the bill, but Del. Charles H. Smelser, D - Frederick, successfully leading opposition to the measure, emphasized that the association is a private organization. He said such an exemption would "open a Pandora's box."

Md. House Unit OKs Rights Bills

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Two civil rights bills were approved by the House Ways and Means committee Wednesday, less than 24 hours before broader measures on the same subject come up for a major hearing.

By a voice vote the committee endorsed bills to clarify policy prohibiting racial discrimination in the hiring of state employees and to require non-discrimination hiring clauses in State contracts. Gov. Tawes had endorsed the measures.

The Senate and House Judiciary committees will hold a joint hearing Thursday on bills which outlaw racial discrimination by hotels, restaurants and other places of public accommodation.

Many of those voting for the hiring bills in the House Ways and Means committee indicated a hope the action would remove some of the force of arguments by civil rights proponents at Thursday's hearing.

Lankford No Longer Navy Job Candidate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Richard E. Lankford, D-Md., is no longer a candidate for a Navy department job.

An aide said Lankford had been interested only in the job of Assistant Secretary of Navy for Materiel. Kenneth E. Belieu, staff director of the Senate aeronautical and space sciences committee, has been named to that Navy post, and the congressman is not interested in any other Navy appointment, the aide said.

Chamber Plans Attendance At U. S. Meet

Plans for sending a delegation to the annual meeting of the U. S. Chamber were made Tuesday night at a meeting of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

Official delegates to the meetings planned in Washington April 30 to May 3 will be C. M. Santer, president, and Henry W. Price.

Mr. Price was appointed chairman of a committee asked to encourage greater participation in the annual meeting.

Members also approved a number of changes in the by-laws.

Included was a proposal to change the fiscal year, now July 1 to June 30, to a calendar year, and to hold the annual election in November instead of July.

The Chamber also adopted a proposal which requires attendance of directors at board meetings.

Harry I. Stegmair, legislative committee chairman, announced plans to reactivate that committee to study state and national legislative proposals.

The Chamber discussed a number of subjects, including sewage, housing, educational facilities and proposals for some form of manager government.

The ancient city of Troy was built on top of eight other cities. The first city dated back to the late Stone Age.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The I love him. Neither of us goes nerve of that cat who wrote about her neighbor having all those cars in her driveway! And then to assume the worst and ask if she should tell the woman's husband. Listen to what happened to me.

I moved here last October. I'm a natural red-head with green eyes which makes me a target for gossip right away. My husband travels just like the husband of the lady Mrs. Big Mouth was writing about.

The first day in our new home I had the following callers, and each one came in a car. A man to measure the windows for draperies. A circulation representative to get me started on a newspaper. A man from a dairy to give me free samples. The minister from the church. A doctor to give us polio shots. A young Republican to get us interested in local politics. A World Book salesman. A man to connect the gas stove. A painter to estimate the job. An electrician to install new outlets. My husband's brother to take me and the children to his house for dinner.

If anyone had wanted to tell my husband that I had a line of cars in the driveway they surely could have done so. — ALSO INNOCENT

DEAR ALSO: Thank you in behalf of all maligned neighbors. Evil, as well as beauty, is often in the eye of the beholder.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is no joke. I need help. I'm an 18-year-old girl who is sensible and well-behaved. For almost a year I've gone with a fellow I will call Bill. He's 20, nice-looking, well-mannered, and normal in every way so far as I can tell. He says he loves me and I think

He has never tried to kiss me, except in a brotherly way, on the cheek or the forehead. Once in a while, if the movie is especially romantic he'll hold my hand. I had many boy friends before I started to go with Bill and no fellow ever acted like this. How can I tell if he's alive? — DILL EMMA

DEAR DILL: The next time he holds your hand in a movie feel his wrist and see if you can get a pulse.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My mother is only 18 years older than I am. She is separated from my father. Mom is very good-looking, full of personality and could easily pass for my sister. When fellows come to see me they become fascinated with her because she's sophisticated and knows all the womanly wiles that a girl of 17 couldn't possibly know. I don't think I'm jealous but feel uneasy when she's around. I keep hoping she won't be at home when fellows come to take me out.

The other evening my date asked her in a kidding way to come along to the dance with us. When she accepted I almost died. He danced more with her than with me.

What can I do to combat this? She says she enjoys being my girl friend. Please help me. — SECOND FIDDLE

DEAR SECOND FIDDLE: Although you asked for advice I'm going to give it to your mother instead — since clearly she is the one who needs it.

When your daughter's dates come to the house be friendly but formal. Remember the fellows aren't there to see you. A 17-year-old girl doesn't need a 35-year-old girl-friend. She needs a mother.

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

'Rides' Tonight

Francis "Fritz" Haselberger, Cumberland and Allegany Ballistics Laboratory employee, shown here in Confederate uniform, has arranged a meeting tonight at 7 o'clock at City Hall auditorium for persons interested in forming Union and Confederate companies to take part in sham battles and other events during the Civil War Centennial celebration. Besides adult "soldiers," the units will accept high school boys 15 and older for drummers and messengers. Some uniformed members of Washington County detachments plan to attend tonight's meeting.

William Ritchey will play a trombone solo entitled "Marie," and "Wonderland By Night" will feature Steve Kornblatt on the trumpet.

The Dixieland Band will play the "Washington and Lee Swing." This group is composed of Elmer Beachley, William Ritchey, Steve Kornblatt, John Robison, Lawrence Lowery, David Gehauf and Mona Durst.

Violinists of the orchestra are Harley Winer, Dawn Shelley, Milnor Roberts, Beverly Pariser, Barbara Chaney and Martha Lazarus.

Civil Rights Bills Okayed By Delegates

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The Maryland House of Delegates approved without murmur Wednesday a pair of bills to spell out a policy against discrimination.

The House accepted a favorable report on the bills from its Ways and Means Committee a day in advance of a hearing on several others concerning civil rights.

Those advanced to final reading in the House would prohibit racial discrimination in hiring of State employees and require a similar clause in contracts for State work.

The bills had the endorsement of Gov. Tawes. He has taken no stand on other bills to be discussed Thursday that would outlaw discrimination by hotels and restaurants.

Paul M. Butler, former national Democratic chairman, is among 18 witnesses listed to appear in behalf of the fair rights measures.

Penalty Is Deleted
The House committee deleted from the bill on State contracts a possible penalty of $100 for violators of the non-discrimination provision. The committee felt that loss of the contract would be punishment enough.

The House also approved a favorable report on putting a ceiling of $37,500 on the annual budget of the State Commission on Aging.

It has been $25,000 and Del Margaret C. Schweinhaut, D-Montgomery, the commission chairman, had introduced a bill to eliminate any fixed amount and leave the sum to the governor's discretion.

In the Senate, final approval was given to a resolution requesting an investigation of whether the Eastern Shore should be included in the Baltimore-area federal milk market.

The probe would be made by the U. S. secretary of agriculture. Approved by the Legislative Council before the legislature convened, the resolution says dairy-men of the nine Eastern Shore counties feel that the milk-marketing order, issued during the previous national administration, dealt with them in a capricious and arbitrary manner.

Wholesale Prices Set
The order sets wholesale prices paid for milk in the area.

Also finally approved by the senators was a resolution urging Congress to appropriate funds for completion of a Potomac River survey which has been conducted by the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers since 1956 and is expected to be completed sometime next year.

Passed by the Senate and sent to the House was a measure to establish a survey every two years of the relationship between property assessments and market value. State aid to local governments for education and other purposes is related to each county's wealth as measured by property assessments.

The Senate Judicial Proceedings Committee, traditionally a burial ground for reappointment measures in the legislature, conducted a two-hour hearing on the subject and indicated that some of its members may be mellowing to the idea.

Plans Being Sought
Chairman Frederick C. Malkus asked backers of a move to give large counties more representation to submit plans for creating new legislative districts in those counties. He indicated he and some other members may favor this method over just adding seats for present political jurisdictions.

There was a fairly heavy run of new bills received, 24 going into the House and 15 in the Senate to start the second month of the 90-day session.

Arriving on the legislative scene was the first attempt to regulate savings and loan associations in Maryland. It has the full endorsement of Gov. Tawes after being prepared by a commission he appointed.

A move was renewed to establish a minimum wage law in the state. The bill calls for it to be $1.25 an hour. The federal minimum wage covering business engaged in interstate commerce now is $1 and is expected to be increased at this session of Congress.

Coburn To Address Kiwanis Club
John Coburn, area representative of the State Department of Education's Vocational Rehabilitation Service, will be the guest speaker at the weekly meeting of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club today at 12:15 p. m. at Central YMCA.

The program will be concluded with a film entitled "Be Your Age" which deals with the care of the heart.

Student Costs

the neighborhood of $269 a year. Fixed tuition charges would account for $185 of the total. There also would be $24 for instructional materials fee, $20 athletic fee, $25 student activities fee and $15 recreational facilities fee. All Frostburg State Teachers College students now pay a $25 activities fee and a $20 athletic fee.

Dr. R. Bowen Hardesty, president of Frostburg State Teachers College, pointed out in a recent talk that the one-year cost of education at this institution could vary between a low of $45 and a high of $807.

The $45 cost is for a teacher training student who lives at home, pledges to teach two years and then has only to pay the activities and athletic fees. A prospective teacher who lives on campus now pays about $357.

The student who is enrolled in the limited arts and sciences program at Frostburg and who lives on campus pays about $557 a year. Out-of-state students pay the top of $807.

Probably the biggest point in favor of making the Frostburg college a Western Maryland center of the University of Maryland is that a student living in Allegany or Garrett County could live at home, take the teacher training program at the University of Maryland, pledge to teach in this state at least two years and pay only the four fees listed above which add up to $84. These fees are for instructional materials, athletic student activities and recreational facilities.

City Hall Staffers Learn How To Operate Radio Net

They're making radio operators out of the girls at City Hall. Procedure to be used in operating radio equipment being installed in the Water and Street departments is being taught girls who operate the City Hall switchboard by Floyd Harper, of the Wes-Mar communications company.

The firm is renting equipment to the Police, Fire, Water and Street departments, including the flood control maintenance crew. They were instructed in the operation of the two-way equipment which is to go in most pieces of mobile equipment in the city, and in the procedure which calls for the use of signals such as "10-4" (acknowledge), to keep traffic on the radio net to a minimum.

The radio nets will supplement but not replace telephone equipment. Members of the flood control maintenance crew received similar instruction at City Hall yesterday.

Brothers Who Are Priests Serve In Same Parish

Parishioners of Blessed Sacrament Catholic Church in Norfolk, Va., have become confused lately upon making telephone calls to the parish house—and no wonder. "Is Father Rizer there?" a caller might ask. Then the priest at the other end will kindly inquire, "Which Father Rizer?"

Rev. Kenneth Rizer, former pastor at Church of Assumption at Keyser, is pastor of the Norfolk Church and his assistant pastor is his brother, Rev. James Rizer who was appointed to his brother's pastorate several months ago.

Rev. Kenneth Rizer was pastor at Keyser's Church of Assumption from 1945 until January 17, 1957 when he was assigned to Norfolk. While at Keyser, he instituted Our Lady of Grace Church mission at Blue Beach, on the South Branch of the Potomac River. The building used for the mission church formerly was a restaurant—dance hall until converted by Father Rizer.

Ordained in 1932, he is a graduate of North American College in Rome.

Rev. James Rizer had no intentions of becoming a priest during his early years. He graduated from Notre Dame University in 1930 and was active on the college paper staff. He was in business fields for 10 years and later became a staff officer with the United States Air Force.

He was ordained to the priesthood in 1950 and some of his first assignments were in the motor chapel work of the Catholic Church.

In these busy days at Blessed Sacrament Church, brother is cooperating with brother and evidently enjoying it.

"I do not know just how long I will be in Norfolk, but it is fine to be here with my brother," Rev. James Rizer said of his latest station.

The mother of these two priests who died several years ago, was a nun. She entered the convent following the death of her husband.

Rev. Kenneth Rizer was succeeded at Keyser by Rev. Joseph W. Hirsch, who in turn was succeeded by Rev. John O'Connell, present pastor.

In the next two generations, the earth's population is expected to double to five billion if the present birth rate continues.

Suit Filed In Accident

Suit for $10,000 damages was docketed yesterday in Circuit Court by Barbara Jean Himes, through her father, Charles E. Himes, 5 Miltenberger Place, against Roger H. Norris, 520 Dreyer Avenue as the result of an auto accident.

Donald W. Mason, attorney for the plaintiffs, stated in the declaration filed yesterday that the girl was a passenger in the rear seat of the Norris car October 25, 1959 on U. S. Route 220 when it was involved in a mishap.

Norris' car struck another machine while he was attempting to pass and the vehicle left the highway and careened into a field. The Himes girl was thrown from the car, according to the declaration.

She was 17 years old at the time and claims that she suffered a skull fracture, a fractured jaw, cerebral concussion and other injuries about the body. It was stated she was confined to the hospital for some time and large medical and hospital bills were incurred.

Man With Gun Wound 'Good'

Sam Nelson, 60, Springfield, W. Va., was reported in "good" condition yesterday at Hampshire County Memorial Hospital, Romney, where he was admitted Saturday with a gunshot wound.

West Virginia State Police who investigated said the man sustained a self-inflicted wound in his right temple. The bullet, police said, lodged in a section of the forehead.

Nelson Tuesday underwent surgery for the removal of the bullet.

Authorities said Nelson, who is unemployed, shot himself with a .22 calibre pistol Saturday night at his Springfield home.

'Young' Cabinet Vs. An 'Old' Council

One of the persistent "issues" of the recent Presidential campaign was the seemingly endless discussion of "youth" vs. "experience." This newspaper, along with many others that supported the only slightly older, more experienced candidate, nevertheless called the issue a phony one.

It's far too early in the Kennedy administration to come to any sort of conclusions about what kind of a government it's going to be for the next four years. But if one thing is clear, it is that the President has no reticence whatever about taking immediate hold of problems and putting a crew of apparently very able men to work on them without any shilly-shallying. He has managed to surround himself with a group of relatively young and highly energetic men who share his eagerness to get on with the several tough jobs that face the new administration.

But since the Kennedy Cabinet is a young Cabinet—its average age is a little over 47—it might be diverting, if not particularly instructive, to look at the ages of the ranking members of the Council of Ministers of the U.S.S.R. According to official biographies published by the Russian embassy at Washington, Premier Khrushchev is 67, and the average age of the next 21 ranking members of the 57-member Council is 56 years. The oldest member is the well-known First Deputy Chairman Anastas Ivanovich Mikoyan, who is 66 and doesn't look it. The youngest is 50-year-old Minister of Finance Vasil Fyodorovich Garbuzov, of whom you've probably never heard because until last year he was only a deputy minister.

By contrast, the oldest member of the U.S. Cabinet is Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges, who at 62 is 10 years older than any other Cabinet member. Half of President Kennedy's "first string" team are under 50, and the youngest is the President's brother, 35-year-old Attorney General Robert Kennedy.

We question whether any lesson can be drawn from this, but we can all hope that in these difficult times, the attributes of youth will be an advantage.

These Days

Appointments

When one is elected President of the United States, he is faced by the political necessity of appointing a host of deserving and undeserving fellow-countrymen to positions in the government for which they may or may not be fitted. No man can possibly know personally or by name all those who are recommended by Senators, Representatives, politicians and even personal friends. The pressures are frightful and often disgusting.

President Kennedy's State Department is a three-headed monstrosity which may straighten out before long. Already Adlai Stevenson spoke out of turn as to what he "guessed" the President intended to do about a meeting with Khrushchev. This did not comport with the President's own statement at his press conference and Pierre Salinger, Presidential press secretary, had to say that Stevenson's statement was his private opinion.

Immediately thereafter a general order was issued that all public pronouncements made by the great of the Administration had to conform to its policies. This was supposed to refer particularly to an address Admiral Burke was to have delivered, but it could apply to Stevenson's obituary eulogy at the United Nations. At any rate, that ought to be the rule or we shall have all kinds of opinions, issued by all sorts of great men, for the woods are full of them and they all like to talk.

The appointment of Thomas K. Finletter to be Ambassador to NATO is undoubtedly a phase of the political situation in New York City. Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, Senator Herbert Lehman and Thomas Finletter are organizers of the Democratic reformers who hope to oust Tammany Boss Carmine De Sapio and take over the Democratic organization. Obviously neither Mrs. Roosevelt nor Senator Lehman could be Tammany bosses. They just would not know how. Thomas Finletter could have taken over if the leaders wanted him which they did not. And now, he has been appointed to NATO which takes him out of New York politics where some advocated that he be the Democratic candidate for Governor against Nelson Rockefeller who would probably have made mince-meat of him.

As for the appointment of Edward R. Murrow to be the head of the United States Information Agency, it is only possible to say that since its organization, this agency has never been suitably manned. What is required there is a competent propagandist, a firm believer in the nature and product of American civilization, an able administrator of a large body of advocates and propagandists in every media. Not to get into a controversy over personalities, I shall name two dead men as examples of the kind of personalities which I believe would be fitted by training, experience, imagination and temperament to do this work. Ivy Lee and Carl Byoir. In their field there are many capable men in this country but they are not in politics or in the public eye. They project their clients not themselves.

Maybe Murrow can do this propaganda job better than his predecessors not one of whom understood the great art of press agency which is at the heart of the work. The late Herbert Bayard Swope disliked the word, press agent. He called himself a policy consultant. The fanciful term these days is public relations consultant. Call these workers in the field of propaganda what you will, this country needs someone who will bring to it flair, imagination, devotion, belief—and vast skill in the projection of ideas.

The best at it are the British who skillfully and convincingly have beaten down a deteriorating view of their significance. The Russians are not equally good at it because they are coarse and offensive. They do better than we do. What we have to sell is human liberty and human dignity. The peoples of the Earth somehow do not believe that that is our motive.

Meanwhile our colleges and universities are being denuded of professors who are taken over by the Administration. What Harvard will do about a faculty is up to that university which apparently can afford to rid itself of its scholars for any Administration that wants them. Perhaps the best way to get a job in Washington is to be neither a Republican nor a Democrat, but to go to Harvard, get to be a professor and end up a government official. Columbia, Yale and Princeton do not seem to be in the running this time.

Good Place To Keep Him

State Of Union Message Is Political Experiment

WASHINGTON

By Joseph Alsop

The President's eloquent message on the State of the Union was the start of what may well prove the most interesting experiment in the long, experimental history of American politics.

For Kennedy's purposes, as even the most partisan Republicans are privately admitting, it was a good beginning. No other American politician since the time of Franklin Roosevelt could have said what Kennedy had to say quite as well as Kennedy said it.

The language of the long message was concise, masculine, and elevated. Many passages were stirring without being sloppily emotional. No passage was tedious except the occasional washing lists of things-to-be-done—and in our time only Winston Churchill has known how to infuse humor and feeling into a political washing list.

Like most speeches that sound natural and unaffected, this was the result of endless hours of grueling hard work, mainly by the President himself and his oratorical alter ego. Proposed drafts and special inserts were pressed upon these two from every imaginable source. Different approaches were also attempted.

At one point, about a week ago, President Kennedy had three-quarters decided to limit himself to a broadly painted picture of the national situation, with almost all the matter in the washing lists relegated to the series of special messages that will still be sent to the Hill. But the more detailed approach was ultimately chosen, which made the task still harder.

In the finale, Kennedy himself worked on drafts through most of Friday night. Sorensen carried on until 8 a.m. Saturday, when he snatched a few hours of sleep on a couch in his office. And a draft that really satisfied the President was not achieved until late Saturday afternoon.

These homely details are worth recording because they are, in a literal sense, part of history. The point is that public exposition—continuous, persuasive exposition in such major speeches as this, in his press conferences and elsewhere—is really Kennedy's crucial instrument. In fact it is very nearly his only instrument, for dealing with a problem unlike the problems that confronted any of his predecessors in the White House.

The British Labor M.P., Richard Crossman, pinpointed the special character of Kennedy's problem in a recent report on "Mr. Kennedy's America." Franklin Roosevelt, wrote Crossman, "had a less difficult task... though he was faced with complete economic collapse. For the crisis he had to tackle was admitted... and the electorate had given him a mandate.

"The crisis of American foreign and defense policy which Kennedy faces is as grave as the 1933 crisis, but its very existence is denied by the Republicans... and it is rendered painless and almost invisible by the comforts of an affluent society. If Roosevelt's chief enemy is fear, Kennedy's is self-deception." And fear, Crossman might have added, always creates a climate favoring action by a strong leader, whereas self-deception is the father of self-indulgence and immo-

College Topsies

Anne Arundel is the most recent of half a dozen counties that have responded to the Pullen Commission's recommendation of 1955 that a prompt start be made on the development of two-year community colleges as one constructive means of relieving the tremendous upcoming pressure on the four-year institutions of higher education. All have started as Anne Arundel is starting: on a shoestring, using a high school in evening hours as a "college." State and local funds cover more than half of the operating costs, with the students paying the balance.

As a starter, the movement is fine. But before long the junior or community colleges in order to amount to anything must get out of makeshift quarters and have campuses of their own, where they can offer full-time academic schedules in the manner of real colleges. Before long, too, they must cease to be the appendages of local school systems primarily intent on administering to the needs of children and become closely integrated with other public institutions of higher education in Maryland. As of now, neither the state nor most of the counties has demonstrated last year in Baltimore County) recognize any responsibility for capital investment in junior colleges.

Companion bills introduced in the Senate and House of Delegates would change this situation by giving the junior colleges legal status, providing a state contribution of one third of their operating costs and setting up a $10 million construction fund to provide them with their own quarters. If the measures were to pass, much would be done to turn a shoestring movement into an established and worthwhile educational program. Yet policy questions still remain as to the junior colleges' role in terms of other swirling educational issues: the expansion of the University of Maryland, the conversion of state teachers colleges to general education and the future of separate Negro institutions. To place the two-year colleges in an integrated educational framework, Maryland would have to have a comprehensive plan of higher education, and that is something the lack of which proves more troublesome as more knotty questions arise.

Utopia Neither Practical Nor Satisfying

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Stop looking for Utopia. Even if we don't work by the sweat of our brows, life never will be free from cares. The ideal state and security for all sound good in theory but are neither practical nor satisfying. We need fulfillment of the inner self.

The problem extends to all walks of life. Too much money is responsible for disintegration in some; too little, in others. Easy money, comfort, and security make professional men lose interest in idealism; the same can be said of poverty in others.

The old pattern of decadency seems to be coming back. Too many of us have no goals and have lost our sense of values. Moral laxity is more prevalent and the dollar has become the modern golden idol. We know what is right but find it easier to shut our eyes to the wrongdoings of others.

Little is heard about the strength of character our forefathers drilled into our offspring. In the days gone by, a boy grew up with the understanding that he could get some place through hard work rather than by finding shortcuts.

Promotion was considered on performance and talent. Parents implanted in their children the desire for sound knowledge and a yearning for excellence. The sense of personal responsibility was as basic as the need to love our fellow man.

Some persons have trouble adjusting to the ordinary problems of life because they refuse to be realistic. Most of their energy is used up on self-pity and they cannot salvage enough strength to assume the initiative that would give them more satisfaction out of life.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

TOMORROW: Cholesterol lowering agents.

Bob Kennedy Supports Oil Attorney, Drops Oil Prosecutor As Assistant

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Bobby Kennedy, the good-looking, hard-hitting new Attorney General, made three moves last week which may give insight into the Kennedy administration's approach to two economic and human problems of great importance — oil and immigration.

Move No. 1 was a hurried trip to the new Attorney General made to the senate to pressure senators for the confirmation of John Connally, prominent Texas oil attorney, to be Secretary of the Navy.

Calling Sen. William Proxmire off the floor just before the Wisconsin Democrat was to make a speech against Connally, Kennedy urged him to reverse his position, quoted an FBI report as one reason for doing so.

The Attorney General, next to the President, is the most potent man in the cabinet. He has the power of prosecution. Not many congressmen stand up to him. Proxmire, however, went ahead with his speech, argued that an oilman who favored turning government oil lands over to private exploitation was not qualified to handle the Navy's precious oil reserves.

Move No. 2 took place almost simultaneously, as Attorney General Kennedy let Bob Bicks, best antitrust prosecutor the Justice Department has had since Thurman Arnold, retire to private life. Bicks, a Republican, had called the shots as he saw them, had cracked down on big Republican campaign contributors, been especially tough on the oil and gas companies, had bucked ex-gov. Tom Dewey in a huge case involving Dewey's clients, Peoples' Gas.

In one of the most scathing denunciations of the oil companies ever issued by a government official, Bicks told the joint economic committee of Congress, Sept. '59: "The oil industry furnishes the most remarkable illustration of a tendency toward exemption from the antitrust law by action of the executive branch. 'The most striking recent exercise of executive discretion to dispense with competition was in the case of the Iranian oil cartel, where, without legislative authority, five leading American oil companies were permitted to join with dominant foreign interests in the greatest international oil cartel the world has ever seen.'"

Last summer, Democratic oil and gas senators blocked Bicks' confirmation as Assistant Attorney General. Sen. Lyndon Johnson, when urged to help confirm Bicks, gave some polite palaver... help. It became quite clear that though the Democrats talked about cracking down on big business, they didn't want to act big where an opponent of big oil was concerned.

Later, when Kennedy was elected, his brother, the new attorney general, was urged to retain the courageous young trust-buster. But on almost the same day Bobby Kennedy went to the senate to help get a friend of oil, John Connally, confirmed as Secretary of the Navy, he let Bicks, the critic of oil, retire from the Justice Department.

Note — Another critic of oil, slated for another department, is also facing opposition. Stanley Surrey, Harvard tax expert, was scheduled to be assistant secretary of the treasury. But big oil Sen. Bob Kerr and other friends of oil oppose him. They suspect he is against the oil depletion allowance.

Move No. 3 came after Congressman John McCormack of Boston came down to see his fellow Bostonian, Attorney General Kennedy, and after Brooklynite John Rooney, who controls the purse strings of the Justice Department, also put in a word. They wanted Gen. Joseph Swing, Ike's Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization continued.

Of all the appointments made by Eisenhower, his West Point classmate of 1915 has been the most controversial. Swing was investigated by the house government operations committee for flying to Mexico on hunting trips on five different week ends at the taxpayers' expense, ordering a mobile generator to supply his camp with electricity, and having a government-owned house trailer meet him on these trips.

Swing at first collected per diem expenses from the government while on the trips, but after the congressional investigation, changed his vouchers and paid for the trips himself.

The General was also investigated by congress for shipping Mexican wetbacks back to Tampico from Texas on a ship on which conditions were so foul that 40 Mexicans leaped over the side of the vessel in Tampico harbor, five of them drowning.

The General also put his daughter, Mary Ann Swing, on the payroll and promoted her rapidly, also hired two Generals, Frank Partridge and Edwin Howard, as his assistants, and devised a military plan of roadblocks along the Mexican-American border, where the United States has long boasted one of the most peaceful, undefended borders in the world.

Finally, it was Ike's military-minded Commissioner of Immigration that ordered the sudden arrest of William Heikkila in San Francisco and, without permitting him a chance to say good-bye to his wife, whisked him off to Finland. The incident gave the USA a black eye throughout Scandinavia.

However, when congressional friends asked new Attorney General Bobby Kennedy to continue General Swing as commissioner of immigration Swing found himself one of the few Republicans to survive the Democratic housecleaning. Bobby continued him.

Memo to Secretary of State Rusk — Several years ago I expressed some criticism of Loy Henderson, now Deputy Under Secretary of State. In the intervening period, I have completely revised my opinion of the State Department. His experience is an asset to any administration, even though he is beyond retirement age... Rev. I Was A Thief

By John Crosby

When I was a boy, my brother and I used to steal iceboats. Well, not steal them, exactly. Borrow them. In those days people would leave the sails loosely furled on the iceboats outside their homes on Oconomowoc Lake. We'd stake across the lake, hoist the sails, and sail off, as the owner came storming out on the porch, howling with wrath.

There wasn't much else he could do. Iceboats are very fast. Within a matter of seconds, you're doing forty miles an hour. (The world's record for an iceboat is 144 miles an hour, set in 1907 and still standing.) Within the narrow limits of Oconomowoc Lake, which is only about three miles at its widest point, we'd have a nice sail, then return the iceboat as close to where we had taken it as we dared and scoot for home on our skates. Perfect crime.

Well, maybe not quite perfect. Suspicion was rife as to who was running off with those iceboats but nothing was ever proved. As a matter of fact, no accusations were made. Dark looks were all we ever got. So now, thirty years later, I confess. We swiped those iceboats. (I don't think it's an extraditable offense.)

Winters in Wisconsin were bone-chilling to the middle-aged and the old, I guess, but cold doesn't bother kids much. Thirty-three below zero was not uncommon on the shores of Lake Michigan, then, though it's not very common now. However, thirty below was considered a cold snap and temperatures like that didn't last long. Maybe one day, or even less. Then the weather would warm up to ten below. Ten below temperatures would last quite a while, sometimes a week.

However, ten below isn't cold really. For one thing when you get temperatures like that, there is not much wind. I can never remember the wind blowing much in ten below zero weather. It's still and it's quiet. There's nothing quite like the stillness of a Wisconsin morning, when it's still black outside and the thermometer reads ten below. You can hear a twig crack at three miles.

You'd step outside in the stillness and you wouldn't so much feel the cold as hear it. For the first third seconds in a very still cold, you feel nothing; then it gets to you. The ear lobes. The fingers. Things freeze quickly at that temperature but only if you stand still, and we had more sense than that.

We played hockey at ten below zero many times and you could work up quite a sweat. Hockey was the game then—basketball was a form of steam-heated idiocy — and we were so crazy about it we'd play until it got too dark to see the puck. To this day, I have never found any game that even approaches hockey for sheer competitive satisfaction. It's the speed, I think, that sets hockey apart from any other sport. You're the wind itself, on skates, the closest thing to flying earthbound man ever manages.

Well, skiing feels that way, too. But the skiing craze hadn't begun because they hadn't invented the tow which made skiing big business. My kid brothers were skiers. My older brother and I were hockey nuts. Our coach was Donnie MacFadden, captain of the Marquette University hockey team, a Canadian who I think was the greatest amateur hockey player ever to play in this country. He was All-American for three straight years; later he joined the Chicago Blackhawks to earn enough money to put himself through law school.

When I was in my late teens, we all started building iceboats in our cellars, little sixteen-foot scooters. We'd sail them on Pewaukee Lake, one of the great iceboating lakes in Wisconsin. As a matter of fact, Pewaukee isn't much good for anything else. Too shallow to swim or fish in. But it has practically no shoreline, hardly any bank at all. The wind howled across it without obstruction and this kept it fairly free of snow.

Snow was the great hazard. On ice it freezes into something resembling granite. When an iceboat hits a patch of frozen snow, something on the iceboat usually breaks. As I recall those days with the homemade iceboats, we spent three quarters of the time fixing them, only about a quarter of the time sailing them. To keep warm, we'd have a bottle of rye in our coats and pull away at it. Drinking at below zero temperatures is a whole new experience. There's a brief momentary glow as if it were cocoa but you can hold vast quantities of the stuff. However, you are holding the whisky — as it were — in escrow. We'd stay outside in subzero temperature all day; then come inside and stand on a radiator. All of a sudden that whisky you had been belting all day long would rise up and engulf you. You'd be stinking.

Life was simpler, more spacious. Winters were longer and colder. And it was all a long, long time ago.

Frostburg To Buy New Fire Truck

Volunteer Unit Will Seek Bids

FROSTBURG — A truck committee appointed by the Frostburg Fire Department has been holding periodic meetings with representatives of the various companies who make this type of equipment. The department is planning on purchasing a new truck to replace the truck purchased in 1922 and which has been in constant or standby use ever since. Two other trucks in the department are 20 years and 11 years old. An equipment truck was purchased several years ago and placed in service as an auxiliary to the regular trucks.

The committee includes John Sleeman, chairman, William Close, Joseph Durst Jr., William Vogtman, Paul Nickel, Enoch Price Jr., and Thomas Sluss.

According to the committee, various trucks will be inspected as to type of flood lights, gallons per minute pumping, brakes, automatic pressures, governors and many other features which the department wishes to incorporate into the truck they purchase. A meeting was held last week with a representative of the Seagraves company and tonight with the American-LaFrance Company.

After specifications are drawn up by the committee they will be submitted to the fire company for approval. Bids will then be advertised from the companies manufacturing custom built trucks.

Barton Fire Co. Report Is Filed

BARTON — James Lamberson, chief of Barton Hose Company No. 1 presented a report of activities during 1960 at a recent meeting.

Included were 31 calls, 25 in the district and six out of the district, nine forest and fields, seven private dwellings, one farm building, two motor vehicles, three flood calls, six CD alerts, and 3 false alarms.

Lamberson said mileage on equipment totaled 100 3/4 and involved 548 man hours. Average turnout per fire was 18.

The fire company had several fire drills in 1960 and also an active part in the CD alerts, which consisted of truck relays and gas and oil fires.

Lamberson stated the company added 500 ft. of 2 1/2 inch hose and 500 ft. of 1 1/2 inch hose to their equipment. Fire losses this year were very low and Lamberson said this is due to the fact that the people in the district are doing a fine job on fire prevention.

Gov. Barron Stands Firm On Income Tax Proposal

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Gov. W. W. Barron told legislative leaders Wednesday he is not wavering in his support of an income tax as "the only logical place" to raise money needed for his programs.

And later in the day, Barron said in an interview that if the income tax bill is enacted he would ask the 1962 session to set a rate ceiling on it through a constitutional amendment.

He said the ceiling would help move the measure through the legislative machinery as quickly as possible and added, "Let's pass it."

The measure got a full explanation before the Senate Finance Committee during its meeting Tuesday.

He encouraged the leaders to move the measure through the legislative machinery as quickly as possible and added, "Let's pass it."

Such action is imperative, Barron said. "We must do everything we can to attract who are trying to get their wid-owed mother remarried and at the same time, their brother, flourish once they have established here."

Barron called Senate President Howard Carson, House Speaker Julius Singleton and other leaders into his office early Wednesday to spell out his position on the income tax bill. He told them he had heard reports claiming he didn't care where the money came from as long as it was raised by the legislature.

"This is not true," he reportedly told the leaders. "I believe the income tax is the only logical source from which to raise the amount of money we need to implement the state's industrial development program."

Caravan Scheduled

From the Wheeling area, is scheduled to come a "right-to-vote" caravan of proponents of a referendum on the subject.

In other committee action: The House Banking Committee, following a public hearing after adjournment of the regular session, killed a measure which would have allowed establishment of branch banks.

The Senate Judiciary Committee took no action following an hour-long public hearing on the Barron administration's bill calling for creation of a Human Rights Commission.

A group of senators and delegates from central West Virginia counties heard Road Commissioner designate Burl Sawyers report that most of the $8.3 million Gov. Barron has requested in new money for the SRC would be used in initial construction of a North-South highway from Morgantown to Beckley.

Former Gov. Okey L. Paterson also attended the meeting and he encouraged lawmakers present to enact the proposed income tax. Paterson said he didn't know of any valid reasons to prevent passage and most opposition was in the form of "I'll have to pay it."

Business sessions in each chamber were short. The Senate met for 30 minutes and the House for 20 minutes. The Senate adopted a House-approved resolution by Del. David Solomon, D-Monongalia, asking Congress to extend the G. I. Bill to members of the armed forces who have enlisted since Jan. 31, 1955.

It also moved to a final vote Thursday its version of measure more clearly defining the succession of governor and judges in the event of an enemy attack.

The House had nothing at passage stage but moved a host of bills to amendment stage Thursday. Included is a measure prohibiting the sale of cigarets at below cost.

Beall Upends LaSalle, 73-71, To Grab Lead In PVC

Six Golfers Share Lead In Classic's First Round

Marr Just Misses $50,000 Ace

By CHARLES MAHER
PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Six golfers, including a youngster who barely missed a $50,000 hole-in-one bonus, shot 65s Wednesday and split the lead in the first round of the 90-hole Desert Classic.

Dave Marr, 27, of Houston, most scored an ace when his ball ran directly over the 16th hole at Thunderbird Country Club and Sifford also played at Thunderbird and the other four leaders were on par-72 layouts. Mike Souchak was disqualified for signing an incorrect card after checking in with a 1-over-par 73 at Bermuda Dunes. Mike shot a 6 on the final hole but his scorer field of 128 pros broke par and put him down for a 5 and he more than 75 finished at 72 or signed the card. Souchak still is eligible to compete in the pro-amateur division.

Right back of the six leaders, at 66, were Bob Shields, Jay Hebert and Don Whitt. A stroke farther back were Art Wall Jr., Gardner Dickinson, Henry Williams Jr., Fred Hawkins and Johnny Pott. Fourteen players were tied at 68. Arnold Palmer, the defending champion here and the game's leading money winner in 1960, was among 14 who finished at 69. The top finishers in this five-day event will split about $50,000. The sponsors have another check in that amount ready for any pro who scores a hole in one. Joe Campbell of Henderson, Ind., did it last year.

Marr, a cousin of Jack Burke, played on a par-71 layout at Thunderbird — one of four courses being used during the early rounds. Sifford also played at Thunderbird and the other four leaders were on par-72 layouts.

Mike Souchak was disqualified for signing an incorrect card after checking in with a 1-over-par 73 at Bermuda Dunes. Mike shot a 6 on the final hole but his scorer field of 128 pros broke par and put him down for a 5 and he more than 75 finished at 72 or signed the card. Souchak still is eligible to compete in the pro-amateur division.

Evans' Goal At Buzzer Wins Contest

Large Crowd Sees Thriller After Tilt Twice Postponed

By TED TROXELL

Jim Evans climaxed a sparkling all-round performance with a field goal at the buzzer to give Beall a 73-71 victory over LaSalle in a game at Frostburg that wound up in one of the most exciting finishes ever seen in an area high school contest.

The game originally was to have been played on December 13, but adverse weather conditions forced postponement until January 19, when the weatherman again intervened.

Last night the boys finally got together and a crowd described by Beall coach "Ebbie" Finzel as the largest in the school's history turned out for the long-awaited contest, which had taken on added significance because the lead of the Potomac Valley Conference hung in the balance.

Beall in First Place
LaSalle went into the big battle atop the PVC standings with a perfect 4-0 record, with Beall (6-1) holding down the second spot. The victory, of course, vaulted the Mountaineers into first place in the 19-team circuit.

So closely was the battle fought that the lead changed hands 24 times and the score was tied on six occasions. The biggest advantage held by either team was a seven-point spread enjoyed by LaSalle in the second period before the Mounties clicked off 11 straight points.

After a fairly slow first quarter, both teams shot at a 500 pace. The only department in which one club had an edge was rebounding, where Evans and 6'5" Marshall Hamilton made the difference for the Mountaineers.

The most important rebound grabbed by Evans followed his own foul shot with four seconds remaining which would have broken a 71-71 tie. The aggressive forward grabbed the misfire and though off-balance fired a desperation shot which banked in just as the buzzer sounded ending the thrilling struggle.

Fouled By Long
Evans had been fouled by Mike Long, who was called for charging while driving in for a tie-producing layup. LaSalle had gained possession after Beall's Allan Eisel completed a three-point play with only seven seconds remaining.

For Eisel it was a case of "turn about is fair play," since he had fouled Long in the act of making a shot with 1:25 to go. The latter plunked in the free throw to give the Explorers the lead (69-68) for the first time since early in the final period when they led by a 58-57 score.

Evans, who scored from outside on a deadly jumper and drove inside for goals in addition to doing a demon-like job under both boards, hit on 12 of 23 attempts from the floor, making five in a row at one point, and wound up with 28 points. Hamilton, senior transfer student from McKinley High in Washington, scored 20 points and Eisel got 16 as that trio accounted for all but nine of the Frostburgers' tallies.

Long, who as a freshman beat the Mountaineers with a long set shot in the closing seconds, did his darndest to duplicate the feat last night. Eleven of his 29 points came during the fourth period, when the Irish almost pulled it out. Mike connected on 14 of 25 field goal attempts. John Sloan, Gary Blake and Phil Barbe, with 15, 13 and 12, respectively, were the other LaSalle cagers in double figures.

Bills To Reduce W. Va. License Fees Presented

Hunting, Fishing Charges Attacked

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A bill to reduce by $1 the cost of a state hunting license was introduced in the State Senate Wednesday by Sen. Carl Gainer, D-Nicholas.

The measure was one of three introduced in the Senate and House that would change the cost of hunting and fishing licenses.

Gainer's bill would set the cost of a hunting license at $2 instead of the $3 now charged and would reduce from $5 to $4 the cost of a combination hunting and fishing license. The cost of a fishing license alone would remain at $3.

Sen. William Tompos, D-Hancock, sponsored a bill which would change the present $10 charge for a non-resident fishing license to the amount charged non-residents by the county or state where the applicant lives.

In the House, Dels. Earl Hager, D-Logan and J. C. Cruikshank, D-Lake, sponsored a measure to establish a new license for non-residents who hunt on commercial shooting grounds. The fee would be $3.

Scott Bosley Wins Game For Tornado

KEYSER, W. Va. — Keyser High's Golden Tornado, trailing much of the first half, rallied in the final two periods to eke out a 58-56 decision over the Piedmont High Lions here last night in a Potomac Valley Conference battle.

The triumph was the fifth in nine conference starts for Coach Estel "Eck" Miers' cagers and gave the Tornado five an overall 7-7 record. Piedmont had a two-game winning streak snapped in bowing for the eighth time in 16 games this year. The Lions are now 5-6 in the PVC.

Piedmont led at the quarters, 20-15, 31-29, and 43-41 before Keyser was able to put on a closing

Keyser, entered the game in the fourth quarter after Lawrence Smith fouled out with Keyser trailing 46-47. Bosley hit for a foul to tie the score for the last time then dumped in a field goal to put the winners ahead to stay.

The Tornado quint led 58-52 with one minute to go but Keith Russell scored two quick goals to pull Piedmont within two points as the game ended.

Lions Troubled By NFL Opener

DETROIT (UPI)—Schedule complications have given the Detroit Lions something to worry about besides proxy fights.

The Lions, like every other team in the National Football League, are faced with the problem of adjusting to the expanded 14-game schedule.

It was decided at the league meeting in New York last week that the Detroit club would open at home on Saturday night, Sept. 16. That is, of course, if their landlords—the Detroit Tigers—would grant the use of Tiger stadium for the occasion.

The Tigers, it was discovered, have no such intentions.

It seems that Manager Bob

Scheffing's baseball charges are scheduled to play the New York Yankees at home that particular weekend and the Tigers don't want the landscape chopped up with football cleats on the Saturday night preceding the Sunday battle with the Yanks.

The Tigers have offered the Lions the following night, Sunday, Sept. 17, as an alternative date. The ball club has an open date on Monday and there would be time to restore the baseball diamond.

A Sunday night game would set a precedent in the NFL. The Lions have not yet responded to the proposal.

There will be four $100,000 added attractions, topped by the Hollywood Gold Cup July 15. Others are the Californian May 27, the Hollywood Derby July 8 and the Juvenile Championship for 2-year-olds July 23.

Maz's Homer Is Top Thrill

7th Series Game Second AP Choice

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Bill Mazeroski of the Pittsburgh Pirates calls his home run that won the seventh game of the 1960 World Series "the greatest thrill of my life."

Sports writers and broadcasters Wednesday selected the climactic clout, which defeated the New York Yankees and brought the world championship to Pittsburgh, as the sports thrill of the year in the annual Associated Press poll.

Participants in the poll cast 77 votes for the home run. The final World Series game, including a series of exciting events which preceded Maz's clincher, received 26 votes for second place. Third spot went to Floyd Patterson's fifth round knockout of Ingemar Johansson to regain the world's heavyweight title. It garnered 12 ballots.

Mazeroski, asked to give his reaction to the home run, replied: "I can't explain how excited I was about it." The impact the event had on other people can be seen by the comfortable margin given to it in the voting.

With the score tied at 9-9 in the ninth inning in the seventh and final game of the series, Mazeroski picked out Ralph Terry's pitch and slammed it over the left field wall.

The crowd of 36,683 fans at Forbes Field, stunned for a moment, broke out with noise that sounded like a volcano erupting.

ACC Draws Up Tourney Plans

North Carolina Won't Participate

DURHAM, N.C. (UPI)—The Atlantic Coast Conference Basketball Committee drew up final plans Wednesday for the annual conference tournament without the University of North Carolina.

Withdrawal of the Tar Heels made revisions necessary but the committee decided to proceed with the usual number of sessions, four, but with only one game instead of two on the tourney's opening night.

The committee ruled that the participating teams will be seeded according to their finish in the regular season's games — including those games played against North Carolina.

The team which finishes No. 1 in the standings, except North Carolina, will draw a bye for the first round. Should North Carolina finish first, the second place team will be seeded No. 1 and get the bye.

The tournament, which decides the ACC's basketball championship is played at William Neal Reynolds Coliseum in Raleigh, March 2-4.

Bob Pence, the league's top scorer, heads Wilson's five while Don Moran, who has paced the scorers of the circuit for the past two seasons, leads the Old Germans.

In the 6:45 game tonight the Forty & Eight Club (4-8) will face the Knights of Columbus (1-6) while in the second contest at 7:45 Boal's Funeral Home (4-3) will tackle Roseland (10-7).

Mild, Irregular Advance Scored By Stock Market

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks scored a mild advance Wednesday that absorbed early profit-taking and a small part of Tuesday's decline. Volume fell to 4,880,000 shares from 4,690,000 Tuesday.

Steel issues were higher in response to official predictions that an industry turnup would come soon. A second consecutive daily rise in scrap copper prices brought gains to that section while further talk of increases in the sulphur price made that group a leader.

The Dow-Jones industrial average rose only 1.19 to 649.39 but the market breakdown was more impressive with 643 advances and 102 declines included in a total of 1,289 issues traded. New highs ran to 112 while only Consolidated Electronics touched a new low.

Affecting the D-J industrials were gains of a point or more in Anaconda, DuPont, International Nickel, Owens-Illinois and U. S. Steel while American Telephone dropped 1 1/2 and Eastman Kodak lost a point.

Louisville & Nashville, up 1 1/4 and Southern Railway, up 1/2, propelled the carriers average 0.74 point higher to 142.45. A 4-point gain in Houston Light & Power boosted the utility average 0.69 to 107.19.

School Program Is Explained To Legislators

Delegation Asks More Information

Allegany County legislators were briefed yesterday in Annapolis on a number of public school matters, including the proposed $5,000,000 school construction program and desires for curriculum adjustments at Flintstone and Oldtown high schools.

Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster and Assistant Superintendent Richard T. Rizer explained the program at a meeting with Senator Charles M. See and the six members of the Allegany County Delegation to the General Assembly.

Del. Fred B. Driscoll, Delegation chairman, said the conference was an exploratory one and very cordial.

He said the delegation had not promised anything and that the legislators want additional information before any decision is made.

To Prepare Schedule

He said Mr. Webster explained the proposed school construction program and pointed out the justification for the various items in the plan.

One item, Del. Driscoll reported, was the proposal to spend $10,000 for science and library equipment needed toward converting Carver School into a community college.

He said Mr. Webster explained that if the plan were not adopted the money would not be wasted, as all of the equipment could be used in existing schools.

Mr. Driscoll said legislators were told bonds would be sold only as needed to finance the school construction program.

He said Mr. Webster promised to provide estimates of the cost of retiring the bonds and a schedule showing the year-by-year effect on the county's debt.

Agree On Needs

Also discussed were the results of a survey conducted recently among pupils of Flintstone and Oldtown high schools to determine what curriculum adjustments would be considered for the schools.

Del. Driscoll said Mr. Webster agreed certain things should be done and that they might require hiring an additional teacher or two.

Legislators said they were told that indications are that the present need is for a language or typing course and that the cost of adjusting the curriculum would not be excessive.

Legislators asked the school officials to come to Annapolis to discuss the program, saying they want to make a decision soon.

Ask Legislation

The school construction program calls for the construction of two new junior high schools in Cumberland, a six-room addition at Parkside elementary school, a new Frostburg elementary school, new shops and relocation of the library at Beall High in Frostburg, conversion of Beall elementary school into a junior high school, a six-room addition at Gephart elementary school and the conversion of Carver school into a community college.

Sought is an enabling act which would allow the Allegany County Commissioners to sell bonds to finance the program to relieve crowded conditions in Frostburg and Cumberland schools and enable a more comprehensive program to be offered in the junior and senior high schools.

Group Formed To Promote College Plan

A committee of representative Western Maryland citizens has organized to promote the unification of the educational programs of Frostburg State Teachers College and the University of Maryland.

Duane H. Little, plant manager of Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, has been selected to head the committee, which is called the Western Maryland Committee on Higher Education.

The committee issued this statement after its first meeting: "This committee is being formed with the widest possible representation in order to muster public support for the immediate establishment of a branch of the University of Maryland in this area of Western Maryland by utilizing the facilities of Frostburg State Teachers College."

"The establishment of a fully accredited four-year curriculum in liberal arts and sciences at Frostburg, in addition to the present program of teacher training, is considered to be essential to the economic and cultural health of Western Maryland and to the development of the area's industrial potential. Moreover, the young people of the region are entitled to educational opportunities equal to those in other parts of the state."

"It seems obvious that making Frostburg State Teachers College a part of the University of Maryland is the best way to achieve the desired result in the shortest possible time and will also aid future growth. Therefore, we urge our representatives in the Maryland State Legislature to press for immediate adoption of the necessary legislation."

Bedford To Get Dial Telephone Service Sunday

Dial telephone service for the 4,200 telephones of Bedford, Pa., will be inaugurated at 2:01 a.m. Sunday, the United Telephone Company announced.

Immediately after a signal from United District Manager William Hagstrom, the telephone users, upon lifting the telephone from its cradle to place a call, will get the steady humming sound of the dial tone, a signal that the equipment is ready for the customer to dial the number desired.

The introduction of dial service entails a complete change in telephone numbers. Telephone officials pointed out that there is no relation between the old numbering system and its method of identifying party lines by letter suffixes.

The new numbering plan has been designed to make the local system compatible with the continental direct distance dialing network.

New dial numbers have been permanently attached to all telephones. The dial numbers are currently concealed by a temporary number card; bearing the present or manual number. Telephone customers have been requested to remove and destroy the temporary number tab Sunday.

Directories listing all of Bedford's new dial telephone numbers have been mailed to telephone customers.

Calls to Charlesville from Bedford will be made by dialing the complete directory number including the two-letter prefix.

Complete instructions in how to use dial service have been provided to all telephone customers. District Manager Hagstrom added a special reminder for Bedford telephone users to look in the new directory for the dial number before every call and to listen and hear the dial tone before attempting to dial any call.

Student Costs At Proposed U. Md. Center Explained

The Cumberland News today begins a series of factual articles about the proposed unification of Frostburg State Teachers College and the University of Maryland. Today's article deals with the cost of education as borne by the student.

By ALBERT D. DARBY Jr.

News Staff Writer

Talk about college education generally gets around to the dollar and cents discussion of the costs involved.

Obviously, that is one of the considerations in the proposal to make Frostburg State Teachers College a branch of the University of Maryland.

A study of the feasibility of unifying the state-supported instructional programs of the State Teachers colleges at Frostburg, Salisbury and Towson and the University of Maryland at College Park was presented last August to Governor J. Millard Tawes and it answered many of the questions about tuition and fees.

Potential college students with teaching in mind as a career will be interested in knowing that the proposal submitted to Governor Tawes last August provided that no tuition charge will be made for Maryland students who pledge to teach two years in Maryland. That would mean a continuation of the policy which has prevailed in the teachers colleges for years.

Another recommendation of last August from the committee which was headed by Dr. Albin O. Kuhn, executive vice president of the University of Maryland, was that all teacher education students enrolled at Frostburg, Salisbury or Towson by last October will have the opportunity to continue their college preparation at their respective colleges under the same academic and financial requirements that existed at the time of their entrance. This right would continue through the period normally needed for the completion of requirements for the bachelor of science degree.

The Kuhn report, which actually implemented the Warfield report of February 1960, did state that a uniform charge of about $600 per academic year for room and board would be proper.

Loan Program

To ease the pain of the expenses of college, the Kuhn report favors an adequate loan program from state funds so that students may borrow the difference between the $600 uniform charge for room and board and the current charge of $266 at Frostburg and the other teachers colleges.

This loan program will have the same general conditions and low interest rates of the National Defense Education Loan Act. The plan will include the forgiveness of 10 per cent of the unpaid balance of the loan for each year of teaching in Maryland up to five years. In other words, in five years 50 per cent of the loan would have been written off.

A $600 annual charge for room and board in all centers of the University of Maryland would make these living facilities self-supporting. The state and the University of Maryland would then, within the limitations of the resources available, have the funds to construct necessary facilities to provide for those who must live in dormitories and board of campus.

For students who are enrolled in curricula other than the preparation for teaching in Maryland schools or who do not pledge to teach for two years in Maryland, there will be uniform tuition, room and board charges at all locations in the University system. General loan funds and scholarship funds will be applicable to all locations in the University system to the extent that they are available.

What Costs Would Be Under the Kuhn plan, which implemented the early Warfield Commission recommendations, the cost for tuition and fees for Frostburg center students would be in

AFL-CIO Asks Food Stamp Plan For Area

BALTIMORE (AP) — An AFL-CIO official Wednesday night asked President Kennedy to designate Western Maryland as the fifth pilot area for a food distribution project.

Kennedy announced earlier that food stamp projects would be set up in five areas of chronic unemployment to permit the indigent to obtain more food. He said only four of the areas have been determined.

Oliver W. Singleton, AFL-CIO director of the region that includes Maryland, sent Kennedy a telegram urging Western Maryland be designated the fifth area.

Singleton said 12 to 15 per cent of the population is totally unemployed. "Thousands are hungry. All are in need," he said.

The four project areas announced by Kennedy were West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Southern Illinois and Eastern Kentucky.

The President did not detail his plan, but it is generally understood that in the selected areas the government will supply needy families with stamps which can be exchanged for food at the grocery store.

Interstate Road Plan Is Asked By Legislators

The Interstate gap in U.S. Route 40 would be eliminated under resolutions introduced in the General Assembly yesterday by Allegany County legislators.

Joint resolutions memorializing Congress to make a substantial increase in the mileage of the interstate system were introduced by Senator Charles M. See and the Allegany County Delegation.

Del. Fred B. Driscoll, delegation chairman, said the resolutions urged that part of the additional mileage be used to extend the interstate highway system through Western Maryland.

Under existing legislation, Route 40 is being rebuilt as Interstate Route 70 as far as Hancock, where it is scheduled to swing north into Pennsylvania to connect with the Pennsylvania Turnpike, which is already part of the interstate network.

Such a plan would eliminate Western Maryland from the interstate system, legislators have been told, and would weaken the nation's defense highway system since existing turnpike bridges and tunnels are too low to meet present defense requirements.

ASC To Meet

The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee of Allegany County will hold its first meeting today at 1 p.m. in the agency's new offices at 126 Union Street.

Several Inches Of Fresh Snow Expected Today

Sub-Freezing Weather Slated

For the third Thursday in as many weeks an accumulation of snow is expected to fall in the Cumberland area.

Several inches fell on Thursday, January 26, and on Thursday, January 19 the area was blanketed by 10 inches of snow.

Snow which is expected to begin falling early this morning will possibly measure up to several inches during the day, according to the weatherman, who promises windy weather and a high temperature ranging from 18 to 24 degrees.

This week the usual Thursday snowfall got an early start when a mixture of snow and rain fell yesterday, causing slippery streets here.

This week the usual Thursday snowfall got an early start when a mixture of snow and rain fell yesterday, causing slippery streets here.

Ralph Weber, veteran weather observer in Oakland, said last night the weather wasn't bad in Garrett County, where it warmed up some during the day. In fact it was two degrees warmer in that county yesterday than it was in Cumberland, which is rather unusual.

It was 28 degrees during the afternoon, according to Mr. Weber, who said the temperature had dropped to 21 degrees by 5 p.m., the low reading for the 24-hour period.

About two-tenths of an inch of snow fell in that county yesterday, a similar depth being reported in the Cumberland area. It was neither raining nor snowing last night in Garrett County.

Robert Golden, local weather observer, said about two-tenths of an inch of snow and "pellets" (a mixture between rain and sleet) fell here during the day. The high temperature for the day was 26 degrees and the low reading 22 degrees recorded at 6 p.m.

State Police at LaVale barracks said U. S. Route 40 east and west of here was in "pretty good shape," although there were snowy and icy spots along the highway.

The third snowstorm in three weeks is expected to hit West Virginia early this morning, covering that state with a new white blanket three to five inches deep.

Cloudy Skies Forecast For Groundhog Day

Those who prefer fair weather are anxiously looking forward to a miserable, dreary, cloudy, overcast day today in hopes that Mr. Groundhog does not see his shadow.

Legend has it that if the groundhog sees his shadow he will return to his burrow and winter will continue for another six weeks.

Forecast for today is cloudy skies with a chance of snow flurries which indicates the weatherman has his fingers crossed in hopes the shadow is not seen.
